IN MEMORY OF LILY MAY GRANT.

When the first blossoms of May
Bloomed over hill and dale,
Our gentle Lily fled away,
Far from this cheerless vale;
The bud had scarce its petals ope'd
To catch the morning sun,
When cheerfully she gave her life
Which seemed but just begun.

Earth had no beauties for her eye
That Heaven could not out shine,
Her pure soul longed for bliss on high,
And sighed for love divine;
With peaceful smiles upon her lip,
Her brief aient was given,
No tears—save for the sorrowing ones
Who watched her flight to Heaven.

Weep not, the bud so cherished here
Blossoms in perennial bowers,
This world is cold, and dark, and drear
For such fair, fragile flowers;
And she so loved, so pure and frail
Was God's own child to be,
So your white "Lily of the vale,"
Blossoms now eternally.

Nine thousand Marshal Neil roses were picked from one bush in a year at Newport, which, at ten cents a rose, afforded a fair profit.

"The amount of food, water and air which one man requires to nourish and keep him alive for the period of a single year, is said to amount to three thousand pounds or more than twenty times his weight. Suppose him to live, in the enjoyment of reasonable health, fifty years after he attains his manhood, he would consume in food, air and water the almost incredible quantity of seventy-five tons."

A Laudable Ambition.

Shoe and Leather Reporter.
Little eight-year-old Gracie on coming home from school was asked by a caller if she intended to be a schoolma'am when she got old enough. She quickly responded: "No, sir; I'm going to be nothing but a mother to my children!" It is barely possible, however, that when she grows up she may fall in with what Dr. Dix calls the "fashion of the day."

The Crown Prince of Germany is an earnest Freemason, and recently delivered an address before the Royal York Lodge, in Berlin, which caused a great sensation and drew forth much comment. The burden of his remarks was that Freemasons should be more progressive, and that instead of clinging to old traditions, whose only importance is their antiquity, they should distinguish themselves by being in the foremost rank of seekers after new and living truths.

MANY ladies admire gray hair—on some other person. But few care to try its effect on their own charms. Nor need they, since Ayer's Hair Vigor prevents the hair from turning gray, and restores gray hair to its original color. It cleanses the scalp, prevents the formation of dandruff, and wonderfully stimulates the growth of the hair.
